At the opera house last night the large audience that witnessed the performance given by D. W. Flagg's Moving Picture Co., shows their pleasure at the return of Mr. Flagg to this city.

The program was an excellent one, and Mr. Flagg made good his statement on the bulletin at the door, that the Girl from Montana, was the greatest Western picture ever produced. The audience went wild over the grand display of swift riding to save her lover from death. The Red Man's Way is an Indian picture, full of beauty and desperate situations. A Life for a Life, is taken from that great play which had such a long run in New York city. Mr. Flagg expects to be at the Barre opera house for two weeks with a matinee on Saturday.

KEW HUMAN NATURE.

Logic of the Man Who Fiddled in the Midst of a Flood.

When Davy Crockett was on his way from his Tennessee home to Texas to fight for the new republic he rode overland with some chance friends from Little Rock to Fulton. One day they were startled by hearing the high notes of a distant violin playing a rollicking air. Putting spurs to their horses, the men hastened toward the sound and soon observed several others running through the fields in the same direction. At last they came over the crest of a ridge in view of the river and beheld the fiddler seated in the middle of the flood in an almost submerged buggy playing as fast as he could shake the bow.

"Hello, there! Turg back!" shouted the men who came through the field.

"I can't," replied the fiddler.

"But you've missed the ford. You'll drown!"

"I've known that for half an hour."

"What are you going to do?"

"Sit here till you chaps come out and turn my horse the right way."

The horse was with difficulty keeping his footing and seemed about to be swept away. One of the men who had been attracted by the fiddling waded out and by a precarious way reached the horse's head and led him round to the ford and back to the bank, the passenger fiddling all the way and winding up with a merry jig.

"What do you mean by sitting out there fiddling in the face of death?" demanded Crockett of the rescued stranger.

"Well, colonel," said the fiddler, "I am a student of human nature. When I found I had missed the ford and needed help, I set out to get it. I might have shouted myself hoarse and no one out here would have paid the slightest attention to me. But there isn't a man west of the Mississippi who wouldn't come running at the sound of a fiddle in the woods."

"And he was right," said Davy, "for there we were, the lot of us, our horses all of a lather, for running to satisfy our curiosity about that squeaking fiddle in this out of the way place."—Youth's Companion.

SUNDOWN DOCTORS.

A Class That Is Peculiar to the National Capital.

"Sundown doctors" are an institution peculiar to Washington city. They are an amiable company of medical practitioners who ply their trade only after nightfall. Not that these gentlemen prefer darkness to light if they had their druthers, nor are their deeds of questionable complexion that looks best in the shade. Sundown doctors have no wares that are dark or tricks that are vain. They are as open as the day that they may not utilize, if they practice their profession by candle light rather than by the sunshine, that's Uncle Sam's fault, not their own. Sundown doctors begin to get busy only after 4:30 in the afternoon. From 9 to that hour, poor souls, they are holding their noses to the grind stones over the government desks, for one must live, don't you know, however soaring one's scientific ambition, and Uncle Sam's wages do come in mighty regular and handy. So that in a pigeonhole is the story of the origin of the strangling fraternity of sundown physicians at the federal capital.

There are thousands of instances. Embryonic young physicians, with their careers yet to carve, secure clerkships in some of the governmental departments of Washington in order to keep the pot bubbling while they are getting their medical education after office hours. Their diplomas thus laboriously achieved, they hang out their shingles tentatively, holding fast, however, to their government positions until securely established professionally.

A job in the federal, you know, is worth a whole city directory full of unexpired patents. Never let go a sure thing till you are sure of a sure thing. Washington Cor. Jacksonian-Courier-Journal.

NATIONAL B. B. COMMISSION.

Held a Meeting in Cincinnati Yesterday Heating Various Matters.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 7.—At the meeting of the national baseball commission yesterday most of the opening session was taken up in the reading of the reports of Chairman Herriman and Secretary Bruce.

Chairman Herriman's report showed that the commission had decided 90 cases during the year and that 3,057 letters and telegrams figured in these decisions. During the year the commission expended $106,348.05 of which $97,239.50 was paid in the world's championship series.

Secretary Bruce's report showed that during the year the major leagues had paid $131,475 for players drafted and $22,028 for players purchased outright. August Herriman was then re-elected chairman and John E. Bruce, secretary of the commission.

A number of minor cases were decided. The Toledo American association was given sole title to player J. J. Quinn, who under the name of Jack Pius had been signed by the Philadelphia National league club, the commission holding that he had not lived up to his obligations to the club to which he was assigned and that his claim of bad treatment by Toledo was unfounded.

The committee from the National association of minor leagues at the afternoon session, which was open to the public, presented a series of requests for changes in the national agreement.

At the night session the commission recommended to the National and American leagues to refuse the requests of President O'Brien to place an American association team in Chicago.

MARRIED 60 YEARS AGO.

Notable Anniversary Celebrated By Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Wright.

Burlington, Jan. 7.—Mr. and Mrs. George D. Wright quietly observed the 60th anniversary of their marriage yesterday at their home, 38 North Winooki avenue. A few relatives and friends, who happened to know of the event, called, but Mrs. Wright, not being in good health, was able to see only a few. The 60 years of married life seem to have passed smoothly for both. Mr. Wright is in excellent health and is a familiar figure on our streets. Very few in this city can report 60 years of married life together.
